Capitalized terms have the meanings agreed in the Terms and Conditions. The following rules apply to the calculation of the fee for the first acquisition of securities under above points A) and B) in respect of both one-time and regular investing:

1. The fee for the first acquisition of securities, specified in points A), B1), and B2), will be calculated as the relevant percentage of the investment amount agreed in the Portfolio Management Agreement (as concerns regular investing, the investment amount is the target amount); the percentage is defined for the investment range under which the investment amount falls according to the first column of the tables specified in points A), B1), and B2) respectively, for the applicable selected investment strategy under the second or the third/fourth/fifth column of the table specified in points A), B1), and B2) respectively for one-time or regular investing.
2. The fee for the acquisition of securities settled from each payment and specified in point B3) will be calculated as the relevant percentage of the actual investment credited to PI's account, designated for the applicable selected investment strategy under the first or the second/third/fourth column of the table specified in point B3).
3. Where the contractually agreed investment amount (or the target amount in case of regular investing) is met and the existing Client transfers, without concluding an amendment to the relevant portfolio management agreement for an investment amount (or the target amount in case of regular investing) increase, another payment on the basis of the agreement, each such payment will be subject to the fee for the acquisition of securities in the amount of 4% except for the fee for the acquisition of securities settled from each payment as specified in point B3).
4. Should an existing Client wish to change contractually, on the basis of a new suitability assessment, the investment strategy agreed in an active portfolio management agreement and switch to another investment strategy with a higher percentage set out to calculate the fee for the first acquisition of securities under the tables specified in point A), B1), and B2) respectively for one-time and regular investing, either with or without increasing the investment amount or the target amount, the Client will settle only the difference between the fee for the first acquisition of securities calculated for the original investment strategy and the fee for the first acquisition of securities calculated for the new investment strategy. The previous sentence of this Clause applies only where the Client has already settled the full fee for the first acquisition of securities under points A), B1), and B2) on the basis of the original Portfolio Management Agreement, prior to the requested change of the investment strategy. The fee, if any, calculated in compliance with the first sentence of this Clause must be settled by the Client in full as a one-time payment, i.e. the Client cannot settle it on an ongoing basis similarly as the fee under point B2).

The fee for the first acquisition of securities under point B2) shall be settled on an ongoing basis from each payment made by the Client, applying the 50:50 ratio (it means that 50% of each payment made by the Client will be used to settle the fee and the remaining 50% will be invested) until its full settlement; this fee type cannot be used for long-term investment savings (LIS) products.
